‘RE-IMAGINING THE CITY’: WHAT DOES A NEW URBAN ORDER ENTAIL?

The discussion will explore the key issues and challenges facing South African cities, and how a range of interventions could begin to address the challenge of access to well-located serviced land for the poor. As the opening panel to the three-day conference, it is important for framing the context of a range of themes to be discussed during the conference. Themes include urban land management, democratic urban governance, community-centered housing as well as medium-density housing, and ultimately how these contribute toward and serve the creation of a new urban order.

11h15 – 11h30 Panel Presentation: ‘Re-imagining the City’ – What Does a New Urban Order Entail?
Panelists:
1. S’bu Zikode, Abahlali baseMjondolo

13h30 - 14h30 LUNCH
THEME 1 - URBAN LAND ACCESS: A SOCIAL AGENDA FOR RE-IMAGINING THE CITY IN A NEW URBAN ORDER

Theme 1 explores the social function of the city, highlighting the approaches, challenges and opportunities to accessing well-located land for the urban poor. Underpinning this is the notion of ‘the right to the city’ (a rights-based philosophy), and the different legislative frameworks and institutional arrangements available to realise land access. The central question for Theme 1 is: If land is central to re-imagining the city, how do we ensure access for the urban poor and what are the challenges and opportunities?

14h30 – 14h40  Introduction to Theme 1 by Steve Kahanovitz, Legal Resources Centre

Panelists:
1. Edesio Fernandes, University College of London
2. Jean du Plessis, Independent Consultant
3. Taffy Adler, The Housing Development Agency

WEDNESDAY, 13 OCTOBER  2010

09h00 – 09h10   Introduction to the programme for DAY III and parallel sessions

PARALLEL SESSION ONE

THEME 4 – COMMUNITY - CENTERED HOUSING IN A NEW URBAN ORDER

Theme 4 will explore the value of community - centered approaches to land and housing in the creation of sustainable human settlements and ultimately an equitable and inclusive city. Particular emphasis will be on the role of the State in supporting housing policy and practice, which will ensure State-assisted housing is built in well-located areas, resulting in integrated and sustainable settlements and equitable cities. Whilst community - centered housing is central to this theme, the strategic importance of location for human settlements is explored.

09h10 – 09h20  Introduction to Theme 4 by Olivia van Rooyen, The Kuyasa Fund

09h20 – 10h30  Panel Presentation: Community - Centered Housing in a New Urban Order

PARALLEL SESSION TWO

THEME 5 - RECONFIGURING A NEW URBAN ORDER THROUGH MEDIUM- DENSITY HOUSING

This panel will explore the potential to reconfigure the city through sustainable, equitable and efficient use and release of well-located land for affordable mixed-use, mixed-income, medium-density housing developments. Whilst the panel is centered on medium-density housing, the focus is largely on reconfiguring the city, particularly in cases of urban renewal, managing city growth, infill housing, and the trend towards mixed-income, mixed-use developments. Therefore, in this regard, the focus on medium-density typologies are limited, although important, as the crux of the argument is around how to manage urban land more efficiently through compaction and densification in a way which addresses the rights of the urban poor, in the aforementioned contexts.

09h10 – 09h20   Introduction to Theme 5 by Iain Low, University of Cape Town
