Strategic overview and key policy developments: 2001/02 – 2007/08

Building a democratic Parliament, that is transparent and responsive to the electorate and that develops and follows a legislative agenda aimed at accelerating the transformation of South African society, has been Parliament's overriding policy and strategic objective since 1994. Recent years have seen a sharper focus on Parliament's oversight of and participation in international organisations, events and forums. Parliament is also encouraging public participation in parliamentary processes.

In 2004, the third democratic Parliament was ushered in. Shortly after the election results were made official, new members of the third Parliament were called to the first sittings of the National Assembly and the National Council of Provinces. Almost a third of members of the third Parliament are new.

New vision and strategic objectives

In early January 2003, Parliament started to articulate a new vision, facilitated by the National Assembly and the National Council of Provinces. In July 2004, Parliament was presented with the draft vision. The strategic objectives for the next MTEF cycle include ensuring rigorous scrutiny and oversight of government's actions, and an efficient and effective institution that is responsive to the needs of all South Africans, deepens public participation and involvement, is people centred, and provides a national forum which the public has access to. Flowing from the new vision and strategic objectives, a pilot project will be launched in 2005/06. The project involves setting up parliamentary information offices aimed at bringing MPs closer to the public.

Services to Parliament

MPs are constitutionally required to perform certain functions in Parliament. These include passing legislation, overseeing and scrutinising executive action (oversight), facilitating public involvement in legislative and other processes, facilitating co-operative government, and participating in international forums and organisations. Parliament provides two kinds of services to MPs: those related directly to passing legislation and to oversight, like procedural, legal and technical services; and those related to the internal functioning of Parliament, such as human resources services, IT and technical services, protection services, household services, catering, and providing accommodation.

Current challenges and initiatives

Apart from the challenges of the strategic objectives, Parliament must respond to the growing demand for participation in African and international bodies.

Other key issues that Parliament needs to address are: implementing the new institutional governance policy; implementing modern technologies and systems; improving human resources capacity; improving internal and external communication; and establishing a value system and developing a code of conduct for Parliament; and providing accommodation and facilities (travel, medical, office) for MPs.

New systems to be implemented include a video conferencing system, an electronic document management system, institutional intranet, and refurbishing certain committee rooms.

Expenditure trends

Expenditure increased rapidly between 2001/02 and 2004/05, rising from R431,9 million to R784,7 million, an annual average increase of 22 per cent. It is expected to increase further over the next three years, but at a slower rate, reaching R1 billion in 2007/08, an annual average increase of 9,5 per cent.

The increases over the last three years provided for increased capacity, as well as for some specific projects, including the implementation of a performance management system, the structural reorganisation of Parliament, a new security system, and new management processes. Members' facilities were also improved.

The 2005 Budget set out additional allocations of R64 million for 2005/06, R85 million for 2006/07 and R100 million for 2007/08. These are to cater for; additional staff and associated operational costs; projects to achieve strategic objectives, such as making Parliament more accessible to the public and improving oversight; and various capital projects.

Departmental receipts

Income, generated mainly from the sale of assets, commissions from insurance agencies for deductions from salaries, the parliamentary catering service, and interest earned, is projected to be R14,6 million in 2004/05, rising to R15,8 million in 2007/08.
