

Load shedding schedule for the period 21 January 2008 to 31 March 2008

Suburbs listed here are per the normal road directory (Map-studio).

Time 1 is the first 2hr 30 min time period during which the suburb may potentially be shed.

Time 2 is the second 2hr 30 min time period during which the suburb may potentially be shed.

There will be rotation of shedding taking place within load blocks.

A load block is all the suburbs advertised for possible shedding during the same time periods.

If, for example, a particular suburb was not shed during one of its advertised periods while shedding is taking place, it is more likely to be shed during the other period of the day but may still not be shed depending on the severity of load shedding and prevailing demand for electricity at the time.

Load blocks are determined by the electricity network and the area supplied by certain substations.

A load block may cut through some suburbs creating suburb parts such as (N), (S), (E) and (W)

There are three maps available on the "Capetown.gov.za" site, showing the same information geographically for areas North, South and East

These maps show suburb outlines with suburb names. However, not all suburbs are named due to space limitations.

An important feature is the shaded areas depicting the load blocks of same time periods.

These Maps will assist in determining which suburb part the customer stays in for border line cases.

Unfortunately the borders are only educated estimates, because the Low Voltage network detail was not taken into consideration.

Load shedding schedule for the period 21 January 2008 to 31 March 2008

Suburbs listed here are per the normal road directory (Map-studio).

Time 1 is the first 2hr 30 min time period during which the suburb may potentially be shed.

Time 2 is the second 2hr 30 min time period during which the suburb may potentially be shed.

There will be rotation of shedding taking place within load blocks.

A load block is all the suburbs advertised for possible shedding during the same time periods.

If, for example, a particular suburb was not shed during one of its advertised periods while shedding is taking place, it is more likely to be shed during the other period of the day but may still not be shed depending on the severity of load shedding and prevailing demand for electricity at the time.

Load blocks are determined by the electricity network and the area supplied by certain substations.

A load block may cut through some suburbs creating suburb parts such as (N), (S), (E) and (W)

There are three maps available on the "Capetown.gov.za" site, showing the same information geographically for areas North, South and East

These maps show suburb outlines with suburb names. However, not all suburbs are named due to space limitations.

An important feature is the shaded areas depicting the load blocks of same time periods.

These Maps will assist in determining which suburb part the customer stays in for border line cases.

Unfortunately the borders are only educated estimates, because the Low Voltage network detail was not taken into consideration.

TOKAI	06:00 to 08:30	14:00 to 16:30

Load shedding schedule for the period 21 January 2008 to 31 March 2008

Suburbs listed here are per the normal road directory (Map-studio).

Time 1 is the first 2hr 30 min time period during which the suburb may potentially be shed.

Time 2 is the second 2hr 30 min time period during which the suburb may potentially be shed.

There will be rotation of shedding taking place within load blocks.

A load block is all the suburbs advertised for possible shedding during the same time periods.

If, for example, a particular suburb was not shed during one of its advertised periods while shedding is taking place, it is more likely to be shed during the other period of the day but may still not be shed depending on the severity of load shedding and prevailing demand for electricity at the time.

Load blocks are determined by the electricity network and the area supplied by certain substations.

A load block may cut through some suburbs creating suburb parts such as (N), (S), (E) and (W)

There are three maps available on the "Capetown.gov.za" site, showing the same information geographically for areas North, South and East

These maps show suburb outlines with suburb names. However, not all suburbs are named due to space limitations.

An important feature is the shaded areas depicting the load blocks of same time periods.

These Maps will assist in determining which suburb part the customer stays in for border line cases.

Unfortunately the borders are only educated estimates, because the Low Voltage network detail was not taken into consideration.
